Roald Dahl's
"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"

Sample Media Release

"Those crazy people in the red long underwear" are returning to the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra with their production of Roald Dahl's "Snow-White and the Seven Dwarfs". The performance will take place at the

The Winspear Centre @ 2 pm, October 14 2000.

Once again, Calgary performers Doug McKeag, Onalea Gilbertson and Peter Rumpel, along with Edmonton's Dave Clarke, will grace the Winspear Centre stage with their highly inventive and irreverent blend of theatrics.

With costumes by Tara Kozak, and more ridiculous puppets (at least seven) by Judd Palmer and the Old Trout Puppet Workshop, the familiar tale of Snow White and her doings with seven height-challenged interlopers will be brought to life in this twisted telling by Great Britain's Roald Dahl. The very modern score by Eleanor Alberga fuels this romp through Roald Dahl's outrageous imagination.

Expect the unexpected from this cutting-edge company, as the fairy tale world gets turned upside down; where a happy ending becomes an absurd conclusion, and nothing is ever quite what it seems...

A tremendously entertaining symphonic adventure for ages 4 - 94.
